Buy Values—not Talk

Don't judge corsets by their looks—showy laces and ribbons don't make them wear well nor fit well.

To get your money's worth you must wear the Nemo, which always represents at least twice as much intrinsic value as any other corset at the same price, therefore will wear twice as long.

Then the wonderful patented fabrics and features, and the well-known Nemo accuracy as to shape and hygienic requirements, give you style and comfort that you can't get in any other corsets at any price.

SELF-REDUCING WITH LASTIKOPS
FLATNING-BACK

For Comparison:

Try to find another $3.00 corset that will reduce your figure so completely and comfortably as Nemo No. 321.

Try to find any other very long corset that will let you sit down with ease.

Try to find another make—at any price—that gives you the slightest abdominal support.

Your verdict will be that—

Nemos Are Supreme For Every Figure

—and that Lastikops Webbing has brought to all women greater corset-comfort than they ever expected.

HINTS TO WOMEN READER

SERVICEABLE AND SMART.

Fine platings of lace, net or silk are much used on hats designed for wear with tailored suits this season. The sketch above shows one of the numerous styles in which this trimming is used. It was of natural-colored straw with medium crown and brim turned up in a wide rever to the left of the front. Fine cream lace finely pleated was arranged in a sort of cockade effect, but falling back gracefully over the crown and caught to the upturned brim by a bowknot of black velvet. These hats should prove most serviceable and practicable for utility wear, as the trimming consists of nothing which will fade or be disarranged easily.

HINTS FOR THE HOME MILLINER TO FOLLOW

Simple and Effective Ways of Trimming a Spring Hat—Ostrich Feather Bands—An Aigrette for Evening.

There are so many simple and effective ways of trimming a hat this spring that the woman who likes to be her own milliner can't escape achieving a stylish creation. Of course, she must be a bit observant. Women who do things for themselves have learned the value of observation.

A. Reverting to hats and their trimming, the flat bow, varied in size and material, is conspicuous among the spring models. It is used on both large and small hats, especially when they are flat to the head. The bow may be of either side, with a broad pump knot, is the favorite. Many of the chic little French bonnets have a roll of ribbon around the crown a few inches above the edge of the hat and bows of various sizes at the back. Some have the ribbon caught at the side with knots of flowers in contrasting colors.

One bonnet of black hemp has a band and bow of black and white striped ribbon with a narrow band of cerise sewed to one edge. At the left side the ribbon is gathered beneath a tiny cluster of American beauty shade roses. The cerise lining just shows enough to give a quantity to the face it frames.

A new idea is to place one of the fashionable ostrich feather bands around the hat in place of the ribbon and either finish it with a bow directly in the center of the back or with one of the upstanding French plumes now in vogue.

For the woman who favors wide hats the flat-crowned big-brimmed model given in the shops will adapt itself to home millinery. One of the smartest ways of finishing these hats is to draw some contrasting shade of ribbon across the crown perfectly flat and fasten it with flowers to the brim, about halfway between the crown and the edge. Sometimes a knot of the flowers is tucked beneath the hat brim as if they had pushed their pretty faces through the straw to peer at the face beneath.

A violet shade of this style had two pieces of golden brown and white striped ribbon drawn across the crown and caught to the sides with purple and brown velvet pannies. A cluster of pannies underneath the brim at the left side nestled coquettishly in the hair.

Never have hat trimmings been simpler and equally have they never been smarter. For this reason the woman who likes to express her individuality in her clothing will find little difficulty in adapting one of the fashionable millinery ideas to her own taste and pocketbook.

Fun With Old Cards.

Euchre and whist are "too dry" for average young people and the age of sixteen years, when the cards are discarded a whist or euchre pack so torn for further service some amusing original games can be arranged with the discarded cards. The following two amusing some bright boys and girls more than one evening during the summer vacation last year.

Each suit is rechristened as a family, and in remembering the mirth-provoking names of the several families lies much of the skill of the game. For instance, in the diamond suit the king is Mr. Diamond, the queen is Mrs. Diamond, the knave, Jack Diamond, the ace, the Diamond puppy dog, while the ten spot becomes the Diamond puppy dog. The smaller spots are rejected, but the nomenclature could be continued in the same strain if desired. Of course, there are similarly, Mr. and Mrs. Club, Mr. and Mrs. Heart, and so on throughout the suits with, in each case, a house and a puppy dog.

Four persons play with one pack of cards. If the number is larger try to get an additional pack. Players sit around a table and cards are dealt as in the well-known game of authors. Four cards are dealt to each person and the rest form a pool. The object of each person is to collect at one time in his hand a complete family, including its king, queen, knave, puppy dog, and ace. This is done by calling in turn upon some other member of the party to supply one of the cards needed to complete a group of which a portion is already in hand. If a player of whom a card is asked has it he must deliver it up. The player receiving it may ask for something else, continuing to ask until he asks for a card which the opponent does not happen to have. Then the turn passes. The player completing most groups wins a prize. This game is played with equal appropriateness by styled Bedlam. Almost any number of players can play at once, and except for an exceptionally large number, one pack of cards is enough.

Some one, with great outward ceremony and precision, shuffles the cards, the whole pack, and begins to pass them to the player seated at his left hand and on to the player seated at his right hand. For instance, the words "Jack of diamonds" or "ace of spades" must be three times clearly and distinctly enunciated. The person next to receive the card must also repeat the name three times, and so on until the card is returned to the dealer, who, as he lays it down upon the table, must say, "It's mine, I'm in." Every card in the pack must pass through the hands of each player. It is the fun of the game to see the dealer agree to call out, "Ah, ah," whenever an ace comes to hand in the passing, and "Oh, oh," for a jack.

Stock exchange is a sovereign remedy for a fit of the most pronounced dumpy-do not do arrange at the mixer of any one who does not like noise.

Timely Recipes.

Steamed Chocolate Pudding.

Beat the yolks of three eggs until lemon-colored and thick. Add gradually one cupful of sugar and continue the beating. Add three tablespoonfuls sweet milk, one square of chocolate melted and one cupful of flour. Beat until smooth. Lastly, add the whipped whites of three eggs and two spoonfuls baking powder, turn into greased cups, filling half full, and steam twenty minutes.

Sauce for Chocolate Pudding.

Beat to a cream one cupful powdered sugar and a half cupful of butter. Add one half cupful of milk and cook in a double boiler until well heated. Flavor with vanilla.

Nesselrode Pudding.

Shell and peel twenty Italian chestnuts. If the homegrown nuts are used double the quantity will be required. Boil the nuts until tender, then press through a sieve. Make a rich custard, using a pint of rich milk or cream, the yolks of six eggs and sugar to make quite sweet. Stir over the fire, add the chestnut pulp and a quarter pound each seeded raisins and cleaned currants. Cook until thickened, take from the fire, cool, then add a pint of whipping cream, and just before serving add a half bottle of champagne. Flavor with vanilla.

May Bowl.

In Germany the fresh Waldmeister which gives it its flavor is obtainable in May, but in this country we are obliged to depend upon the dried Waldmeister herbs, so we can have the drink at any season. Soak one fifth package of the dried herbs in water for twenty-five minutes (two long for fear it will grow bitter). Strain through a cloth. Four two bottles of light Moselle wine in a bowl and add the liquid, sugar to sweeten, dash in hot water, a tablespoonful of whisky and a piece of ice. If the Waldmeister used makes it too strong dilute with more wine. Just before serving add a half bottle carbonic water. Champagne is also added if desired.

Apple Slump.

By boiled apple pudding is inferred mean the old-fashioned "slump." To make it pare, core and quarter a dozen tart, juicy apples, turn over them a cupful of boiling water and set where they will begin to cook. Five minutes later add to the apples two cupfuls of molasses and cook five or more minutes, while you prepare a very soft biscuit dough, using for a pint of flour a teaspoonful of sugar, two spoonfuls of baking powder, a half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of soda, and a dash of yeast. Roll out the dough and cut into small rounds. Put this over the apples, cover the kettle closely and cook twenty-five minutes without lifting the cover. When done, pour the syrup over the apples to a cream a half cup of butter and one cup of sugar, stirring in just before using.

German Rice Pudding.

Cook one-half cupful well washed rice in one cupful boiling water until the water is all absorbed. Turn into the double boiler, adding three cupfuls hot milk and cook until the rice is very tender. It will not absorb all the milk. Beat one egg light, with two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and add to the hot rice, together with two level spoonfuls butter and a salt spoonful of salt. Stir this into the hot rice just as it is ready to be taken from the fire. Turn into a glass dish ready for serving. Mix two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a scant teaspoonful of cinnamon, sprinkle evenly over the top, put on a tablespoonful of butter in little bits and by the time the first part of the dinner has been eaten the sugar and butter mixture will have melted, making a delicious sauce for the hot pudding.

Caviare.

Caviare is used as an appetizer or relish, and is usually served on strips of toast with olives or finely chopped onions as an accompaniment.

Old Hats Made New.

Hats for evening and afternoon wear may easily be constructed from the picture hats of last season by women who have even a moderate skill in home millinery. The wide brimmed legions of straw and chip hats as well as those of crim are not materially changed in shape from those of last year. If the hat is large enough on the head to sit well down and a hat purchased last year is pretty sure to be its owner may have no hesitation in rettriming it for a very best hat for this season. A hat purchased season before last, on the contrary, will be apt to sit too high on the head to be available. This is a very difficult fault to remedy, and unless the home milliner is

"With winter's chills, come washday ills."

Ever heard that old rhyme? It's going out of date now. Every woman who abandons the old back-breaking, health-wrecking, washboiler hot-water way of washing clothes, and uses Fels-Naptha in lukewarm water, is giving it a kick farther back.

Anty Drudge Ends Troubles.

Mr. Suburbs—"I'm just going into the drug store to get a supply of quinine, Anty. My wife had the house like a Turkish steam bath with boiling clothes before I came out and I can feel myself catching cold already."

Anty Drudge—"That's too bad, Mr. Suburbs. I'll just go right up there and show Mrs. Suburbs how to do her washing with Fels-Naptha in lukewarm water without boiling or hard rubbing. Then you'll never have steam or odors in the house on washday, and it will be so much easier for your wife."
